

LOLLIES 2020 SHORTLIST THE YEAR'S FUNNIEST CHILDREN'S BOOKS

Michael Rosen, children's novelist, poet and former Children's Laureate, has announced the shortlist for the 2020 Laugh Out Loud Awards (The Lollies), the awards that celebrate the funniest children's books.

A long-time champion of funny books for children, Michael Rosen said: "Anyone around children looking for books to have them giggling and laughing over and over again, these 12 books will do the job. Funny books are so important because they make you feel good. What could be better than that?"

The twelve shortlisted books are:

Rosen and his judging panel, consisting of Alison Leach, founder of BooksForTopics and a primary teacher, Scott Evans, a primary school teacher and blogger, Andria Zafirakou, winner of the $1 million Global Teacher Prize 2018, as well Kate Newport, Product Director for Scholastic Book Clubs and Book Fairs, selected the shortlist from nearly 120 titles submitted by children's publishers.

Now the winning book in each category will be decided solely by children's votes, with schools and parents encouraged to help kids get involved and vote via the Lollies website [4], or via the Lollies PopJam channel.

The winning books will be announced in early 2020.

The Lollies are sponsored by Happy Monkey Smoothies and were created in response to findings from the Scholastic Kids & Family Reading Report? [5], which found that what two-thirds of children aged 6-17 looked for when choosing books for themselves were 'books that make me laugh'.
